NEW YORK (AP) — Treasury agents announced the seizure Thursday night of nearly $2 million in bogus $10 bills from plates which caused a Secret Service alert six months ago.

The U.S. Treasury office said the counterfeit bills were seized in the cellar of a four-family house in Brooklyn.

One prisoner was taken. He was identified as Joseph Maggio, laborer for a utility company, who with his wife and one child, had occupied an apartment in the building for four years.

Maggio was described as not important in the counterfeiting organization producing the bills. He was silent under questioning.

Bogus $10 bills began circulating in the five boroughs of New York about six months ago. The number was so great — from $4,000 to $5,000 worth a week—that an urgent alert was issued by the Secret Service.

Joseph A. Hovey, U.S. attorney for the Eastern District, told newsmen after the announcement of the bills' seizure:

"We feel definitely they are being printed in the United States."

The house was first put under surveillance four months ago, Hovey said. The raid was set for Wednesday night.

In the Maggio family's storage space in the basement of the house were three suitcases and two cardboard cartons. All were filled with bundles of the counterfeit bills, the authorities said.

4-Inch Rain Floods Areas Of So. Calif.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Up to four inches of rain walloped Southern California areas Thursday. It flooded homes, streets and cars, crippled traffic, closed schools and swept a schoolboy to death in a flood control channel.

A landslide buried a car on U.S. Highway 101 at Coral Beach, north of Santa Monica. The driver suffered severe injuries.

Landslides blocked 101 and at least two other highways. Mud crept down Bel-Air slopes denuded by last November's multimillion-dollar fire.

Firemen evacuated five homes and a number of swamped automobiles in the sodden Santa Bay area. Mayor William Suppe of Manhattan Beach got permission to use National Guard troops if it becomes necessary to evacuate low-lying homes in his community.

The 40-foot schooner Adventurous radioed it was lost in fog and rain 14 miles off Point Dume. A Coast Guard patrol boat went after it.

The 6,100-ton freighter Chickasaw, sailing from Japan to Los Angeles, ran aground on Santa Rosa Island, 30 miles off Santa Barbara, during a blinding rain Wednesday night.

Forecasters said perhaps an inch more rain would fall Friday.

Santa Barbara had 4.06 inches. Charles Hibbs, 7, drowned in the rain-swollen Los Angeles River flood control channel in suburban Canoga Park.

Three other second-graders with whom he was walking to school said he wanted to show them what a good swimmer he was. They said he climbed down the steep bank into the water and was swept away.

Ten Los Angeles city schools were closed because of the rain.

Lawrence Sets Execution Date

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Lawrence Thursday fixed the week of April 2 for the execution of Elmo Smith.

Smith, of Bridgeport, was convicted in 1960 for the 1959 Christmas holiday rape-slaying of Maryann Mitchell, a Philadelphia school girl.

His trial was shifted to Gettysburg because of public feeling against him in the Montgomery County area.

All during his lengthy trial in 1960, the 41-year-old former handyman maintained he was innocent, claiming he never saw the girl in his life.

Weather Satellite Taking Excellent Cloud Pictures

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new weather satellite, Tiros IV, shot into orbit around the earth Thursday and immediately started taking excellent quality pictures of the clouds 500 miles below it.

Within a few days, cloud photographs from the new satellite may play a significant role in plans for the recovery of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., from the first Project Mercury manned orbital flight.

One of the two cameras in the drum-shaped, 285-pound satellite was equipped with an improved lens to reduce distortion and provide greater detail.

A MOTHER'S GRIEF—A woman, her coal miner son listed among the missing, weeps on shoulder of man at entrance to mine near Saarbruecken, Germany, where explosion occurred. At least 283 miners were killed in the blast.

Germans Mourn 283 Dead; Vigil Ends For Others

SAARBRUECKEN, Germany (AP) — Germany mourned 283 dead Thursday in the worst disaster of Saarland mining and abandoned hope that any of 20 still missing men would be brought alive from the debris of Luisenthal coal mine.

All but a few sorrowing wives and daughters of men still believed buried underground gave up their day and night vigil at the mine gates. Only dead were being recovered from 1,800 feet underground.

The exact number still missing was not known due to confusion in counting survivors.

There were 81 men in critical condition in hospital and 100 were reported to have escaped unhurt.

There were 480 men in the mine at the time of the explosion and cave-in, a spokesman for the Saar State Mining Office said.

"That leaves 20 missing. We do not know exactly how many may still be in the mine, but there is no hope that any can be found alive."

The mine disaster was Germany's second worst, exceeded only by the death of 402 miners in an explosion in the Ruhr in 1946. The death of 148 men in 1948 was the Saarland's worst previous mining catastrophe.

More than 30 hours after a mighty fireball explosion had wrecked No. 4 level of the state-owned Luisenthal mine and shook houses for miles around, searchers found a group of bodies "littered like dead leaves."

Some burned to death, others crushed by tons of coal and rock. The majority lay on their faces or curled as in sleep. Some wore gas masks, but evidently deadly fumes worked too quickly.

There was hardly a family in the towns of Luisenthal, Voelklingen and Burbach that was not affected by the tragedy. Families with six or more children in the predominantly Roman Catholic region were left fatherless and without support.

The German government announced a donation of a million marks — $250,000—for stricken families. Donations of another million poured in from industrial, labor and church organizations.

Bloom Challenges Report

Scott Claims Ike's Support

HARRISBURG (AP) — U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott claimed Thursday that former president Dwight D. Eisenhower had endorsed him for governor.

He also claimed that Eisenhower, in a telephone conversation from his vacation site in California, had spoken disparagingly of the ticket formed earlier this week by Superior Court Judge Robert E. Woodside, for governor, and U.S. Rep. James E. Van Zandt, for U.S. Senator.

Republican State Chairman George L. Bloom immediately challenged Scott's version of the conversation and sent off his own telegram to the former president.

Bloom asked Eisenhower to advise him of the correct statement made to Scott.

Bloom Wire

"This is so out of character of anything you have ever done or said that I am unable to believe that you ever used such language in referring to two outstanding public officials and that in some way your language has been garbled." Bloom wired the former president.

Woodside, in a statement, said he was "naturally pleased that the actual text of Gen. Eisenhower's telegram bore almost no resemblance to the version Sen. Scott so glibly related this morning. Apparently Sen. Scott was guilty of wishful hearing in his telephone conversation."

"Sen. Scott's propostitious tactics in opposing my candidacy are almost unbelievable."

In California, an Eisenhower aide confirmed that the two had talked Wednesday night, but declined to comment on the remarks

Cloud Coverage

Some of the first pictures showed a tremendous cloud coverage over North America, with what space agency officials called "really good" detail in the clouds.

Other films showed the outline of the Great Lakes.

Pictures taken on the second orbit provided a clear shot of the clouds over Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan, southern Canada, Nova Scotia and the North Atlantic.

Film on the first orbit covered an area "probably a little bit further east," said Dr. Morris Tepper, director of meteorological systems for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Tiros IV was launched at 7:43:06 a.m. Eastern Standard Time from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The pictures transmitted by the satellite were received at two primary stations—at Wallops Island, Va., and Point Mugu, Calif.—and at a backup station operated by Radio Corp. of America at Princeton, N.J.

At both primary stations, Weather Bureau teams were on hand to analyze the most immediately useful photographic data. Starting Friday, the Weather Bureau will employ Tiros IV data in its own weather forecasting work, and will make public pictures of particular interest.

As for the forthcoming orbital attempt by Glenn—now planned for the middle or latter part of next week—Tepper said Tiros IV could well play a significant role if something went wrong and the astronaut landed far from the planned recovery areas.

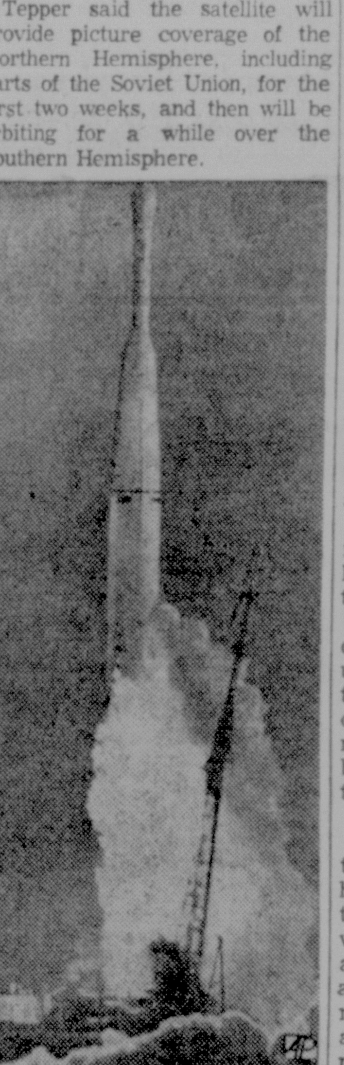

Is Critical

Tepper said he doubted that Tiros would have any critical part in forecasting weather for the normal recovery areas in the Atlantic—the ocean region between Bermuda and Puerto Rico—for the space shot.

Regular forecasting facilities aboard ships and aircraft should handle that region satisfactorily, he said.

This was the fourth Tiros success in four launchings. Three more Tiros satellites are planned—the next one before the end of September.

Tepper said the satellite will provide picture coverage of the Northern Hemisphere, including parts of the Soviet Union, for the first two weeks, and then will be orbiting for a while over the Southern Hemisphere.

Three In Family Perish In Fire

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Three members of a family perished and five other persons, four of them firemen, were injured Thursday in a fire in a building in Pittsburgh's Uptown section.

Firemen rescued Charles Morton Jr., 62, a disabled veteran, after fighting their way to the top floor of the three-story brick structure.

Morton's father, Charles Sr., 85; a sister, Mrs. Jeanetta Webb, 64; and Mrs. Webb's son, Joseph, 40, were killed in the blaze. The family lived on the third floor.

Morton Jr. and Fire Capt. Bernard Dougherty, 44, suffered smoke inhalation and were detained at hospitals. Firemen Frank Gentile, William Gaisor and George Reihel were treated at the scene for smoke inhalation.

"No one is more entitled to such an award," McCormack said. "I profoundly respect Congressman Walter as a great American and outstanding legislator."

Argentina Ends Cuba Ties

Brings To 14 Nations That Have Done So

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Arturo Frondizi yielded under pressure of military leaders Thursday night and broke diplomatic relations with Fidel Castro's Communist Cuba.

The action, reversing Argentina's soft stand on Cuba at the recent Punta del Este Conference, increased to 14 the number of hemisphere republics that have cut ties with the increasingly isolated Castro.

Argentina's neighbor Uruguay may become the 15th to break with Havana.

Frondizi's government ordered Cuban diplomats to get out of the country within 48 hours.

Officials immediately prepared for a possible outbreak of violence by aroused pro-Castro leftists.

The break enabled Frondizi to ease the worst military crisis confronting him since he took office more than three years ago.

Touched Off

The crisis was touched off by Argentina's refusal at the Punta del Este foreign ministers' conference to vote for a U.S. and majority-backed resolution ordering Cuba ousted from the inter-American family.

Last week the armed forces chiefs demanded that Frondizi sever relations with Cuba immediately and fire Foreign Minister Miguel Angel Canciano, who headed Argentina's delegation at the conference.

A communique announcing the country's dramatic break with Cuba gave as the reason "reprisals" from the conference vote to expel the Castro regime from the Organization of American States (OAS).

There was no immediate word on the outcome of the military's demand for resignation of Canciano.

The break came as a blow to other members of the six-nation bloc that held firm at Punta del Este against ousting Cuba — Brazil, Mexico, Chile, Ecuador and Bolivia.

Protests over the stand, though most noticeable in Argentina, have arisen in each of the countries.

Frondizi had injected some doubts into the situation last Saturday when he defiantly defended the Argentina position at Punta del Este. He asserted the six-nation bloc was upholding "the basic principles of self-determination and nonintervention."

Also Accuses

In a speech at Parana, Argentina, Frondizi also accused what he called reactionary elements in the United States of conspiring with "their direct and indirect agents to foster insurrection against the national governments which fight for the dignity and independence of their peoples."

Argentina and its allies had contended there is no provision at present in the OAS charter for expelling members.

But observers saw the tipoff to a break when Frondizi last week recalled his ambassador to Havana, Julio Amodeo, who returned to Buenos Aires shortly before the rupture communique was issued.

Only Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., protested when Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., ruled "I am convinced this executive plea applies and the chair sustains it."

However, Thurmond did not ask for a subcommittee vote on the ruling, which he could have done.

Stennis has been insisting on the senators' right to the names up to the moment when Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara read to the subcommittee Kennedy's letter Thursday ordering him not to let Pentagon witnesses provide them.

Rep. Walter Honored By Legion Aux.

Associated Press Special Service WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., was awarded a gold plaque Thursday by the American Legion auxiliary in recognition of his work "in the cause of democracy" and as chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

The presentation was made by Mrs. J. Howard McKay, national president of the auxiliary.

At the ceremony, House Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., hailed Walter as "a valued friend and a distinguished colleague."

"No one is more entitled to such an award," McCormack said. "I profoundly respect Congressman Walter as a great American and outstanding legislator."

Good Morning!

He: "This is going to be a real battle of brains."

She: "How brave of you to fight unarmed."

RETURN TO NASSAU AFTER WATER SKI TRIP—Actress Jayne Mansfield is helped by her husband, Mickey Hargitay, to dock at Nassau after they were picked up by a yacht off the beach of isolated Rose Island. Miss Mansfield was taken to a hospital for treatment of shock, exposure and coral rock cuts. Hargitay was treated for a cut leg. (AP Wirephoto)

Deny It Was Publicity Stunt

Jayne Shaken By Sea Episode; Hubby Tells Of Narrow Escape

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — A disheveled and weeping Jayne Mansfield returned safely Thursday and her husband denounced as a lie any suggestion the movie actress' disappearance was a publicity stunt.

"I am very hurt," said Mickey Hargitay with tears in his eyes. "Jayne doesn't need publicity. Only a stupid person would think up such a lie."

Miss Mansfield, Hargitay and their friend, hotel publicist Jack Drury of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., were spotted at 8:35 a.m. Thursday on the eastern beach of Rose Island, six miles east of Nassau.

They had been the objects of an intense air-sea search that began after dark Wednesday when Miss Mansfield failed to keep several appointments following a water-skiing trip.

The search intensified after Richard Wells, 45, a fisherman, reported finding the overturned Mansfield boat. He and a companion righted it and towed it to Nassau.

A minor mystery developed when it was noted the skis and tow ropes were missing, but searchers said they disappeared in the struggle that overturned the boat or when the two men righted it.

Is Hospitalized

Upon their return to Nassau, Miss Mansfield was hospitalized for shock, rock cuts, exposure, and numerous sand fleas and mosquito bites. Hargitay was treated for a cut leg. Drury, who moved to Fort Lauderdale from South Orange, N.J., last year, was uninjured.

Hargitay said he attended the news conference only because he had heard talk that the disappearance was a publicity stunt.

He described their harrowing experience, that began with photographers following them for a mile or more as they water-skied out of Nassau Harbor about noon Wednesday.

Drury was operating a 17-foot rented outboard motorboat towing Miss Mansfield and Hargitay, a former Mr. Universe.

Their only clothing, he said, was their swimming suits and a sweater Drury had in the boat. Later, Jayne used the sweater as the three huddled for warmth atop a coral reef in a tide-swept sea.

Hargitay and Miss Mansfield skied near Rose Island, a virtually uninhabited speck of land nine miles long and half a mile wide, six miles east of Nassau.

As they skied in a wide arc, he said, Jayne fell off her skis. Hargitay dropped off of his and swam to her side. She told him, "I think I pulled my leg."

Seen Sharks

Then, Hargitay said, Drury brought the boat around, shouting he had seen two sharks.

Jayne, in mortal fear of sharks, panicked, Hargitay said. In their desperation to get her back aboard the boat, Drury fell overboard and the craft overturned.

In the confusion, Hargitay lost his grip on Jayne and she disappeared. In about 30 seconds, Hargitay found her under the boat. He pulled her out unconscious and he and Drury got her atop the overturned boat.

They drifted more than an hour, finally nearing a small coral atoll measuring about 50 feet across. They climbed atop the atoll, letting the boat drift away. Jayne still was unconscious.

As they prepared to spend the night, the tide rose, driving them higher. Finally, he said, the tide left just enough room on the coral reef for them to sit huddled together for warmth. Mosquitoes and sand fleas took their toll. Waves splashed over them during the dark night.

At dawn, they spotted Rose Island about 200 yards away and swam and waded to the beach. As they began exploring the fringe of the jungle, Jayne fainted and the exhausted men flopped down on the sand and slept.

Other members of the committee were Reps. Porter Hardy Jr., D-Va., who was chairman, and Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md.

Van Zandt said that although he agreed generally with the report its recommendations are not adequate.

Agency and their administration of laws concerning supplemental airlines.

It was such a line, Imperial, that was involved in the Richmond crash.

Van Zandt said the House committee's investigation report apparently was geared to go along with the CAB's investigation report and was a mere whitewash.

"I'm tired of being pushed around by bureaucrats," Van Zandt said.

He told a newsman that when he did he decided to write an opinion of his own.

Van Zandt announced his intention of introducing a resolution in the House authorizing a full-scale congressional investigation of the CAB and the Federal Aviation

Say Summit Talks Could Result Later

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan announced Thursday a bid to Soviet Premier Khrushchev for a foreign ministers' meeting on disarmament and hinted at a summit meeting to follow.

They announced also British permission for U.S. in-the-air nuclear tests at Christmas Island in the Pacific Ocean, and U.S. permission for a British underground test in Nevada.

The announcement, made simultaneously at the White House and by Macmillan before the House of Commons, shaped up a joint U.S.-British strategy aimed at:

1. Probing Soviet intentions once again for an agreement on halting the arms race.
2. Focusing world attention on the U.S.-British disarmament effort, rather than on their preparations for a new round of nuclear testing.
3. Quieting domestic critics, particularly in Britain, of the new Western atomic tests.

Tests Regardless

U.S. authorities said that regardless of whether the Soviet Union agrees to a foreign ministers' get-together, Kennedy would decide soon on security grounds whether to go ahead with atmospheric tests.

He has indicated he believes renewed U.S. atmospheric testing is necessary because of Soviet weapons advances since breaking the test moratorium last September.

There is little expectation here that Khrushchev will go along outright with the Kennedy-Macmillan suggestion that the U.S., British and Soviet foreign ministers convene ahead of the 18-nation general disarmament conference opening at Geneva March 14. It was speculated that Moscow would respond with some counterproposal aimed at jockeying for propaganda advantage.

The United States and Britain declared their deep concern "for the future of mankind if a halt cannot be called to the nuclear arms race." They resolved to make "a supreme effort" at the Geneva conference to "move away from this sterile contest."

It was in this connection that the Kennedy-Macmillan statement suggested a possible summit meeting, if that should seem worthwhile.

The British underground test in Nevada is to be carried out within a few weeks and is to be a small one, less than the force of the 20-kiloton Hiroshima bomb.

Nixon Holds Praise For Bob Kennedy

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon Thursday night praised Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy as "a tough-minded, intelligent" man who has many qualities of leadership in foreign policy.

However, the former Republican candidate for president told a nationwide NBC-TV audience on the Jack Paar Show that the President's brother would need more experience before assuming such responsibilities.

"In looking at Robert Kennedy, you have a man who, except for lack of experience which he is now gaining, has many qualities of leadership in foreign policy," Nixon said.

Nixon said "the will to win and willingness to work such as Robert Kennedy has demonstrated" is needed in foreign policy work today because of the state of international affairs.

Man Killed In Bristol Blast; 4 Others Hurt

BRISTOL, Pa. (AP)—A maintenance man was killed and four other workers injured Thursday in an explosion that damaged a one-story paint building at the Thiolok Chemical Co. in nearby Bristol Township.

The blast occurred as workers removed an unused vacuum pipeline from the frame building. A company spokesman said a welding torch apparently touched off an accumulation of gas lodged inside the pipe.

Killed was Joseph A. Baehser, 41, of Croydon, Bucks County. He was aiding in the cutting of the pipe with the torch.

One side of the building was shattered. It is used for painting casings of packaged liquid fuel used in rocket engines.

The pipe, on the north side of the building, runs about 75 feet along the outside and has feeder lines going into the structure. The crew with Baehser was disconnecting the feeder lines.

There was no fire, but the explosion shattered windows in other buildings on the company property.

Taken to lower Bucks county hospital were Francis Caulfield, 34, Florence, N. J., whose left foot was blown off; David Scott, 50, Bridgeboro, N. J., burns of both arms; Medford Temple, 52, Fairless Hills, Pa., concussion, and George Walton, 38, Levittown, Pa., cut on the ear.

BARRETT — Just about the time everyone was considering the removal of storm ash, winter woke up and got back to business. Here come boots and mittens.

Unification Of Churches Explored

SOUTH STERLING — Mrs. Charles D. Smith was elected chairman of the unification commission during an organizational meeting at the Smith home. Elmer Becker was named secretary of the unit.

Unification of the three churches of the South Sterling Methodist charge including LaAnna, South Sterling and Hemlock Grove, was explored during the session. Financial comparisons of the three churches were made, and these will be compared with budgets of churches of other areas where consolidation has taken place.

It was emphasized at the session, however, that unification in this area is still only in the "thinking" stage, and that much work and thought must go into any further steps in the future.

Detailed accounts of the three churches will be prepared for the next meeting on June 1.

Attending the meeting were the Rev. James Jeffers; Robert Krieger and Albert Oberly representing Hemlock Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Smith, Elmer Becker and Edwin Frey, South Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. George Newell and Mrs. Fred Bancroft, LaAnna.

St. John's Installs Deacons

BARTONSVILLE — On the fourth Sunday after Epiphany, William Fetherman, Donald Hartman and Floyd Cyphers were installed as deacons at St. John's Lutheran Church.

Stephen Kirk, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kirk, celebrated his third birthday on Feb. 8. Other local folks who will celebrate their birthdays this week include Robert Beehler, Blanche Possinger and Doris Mader.

Almost $80 was added to the St. John's Lutheran Sunday School Building Fund when Building Fund Sunday was observed on Jan. 28. Classes making contributions were Beginners, Primary, Junior, Intermediate, Senior and Men's class.

"Building Fund Sunday" came into being at an officers and teachers meeting of the Sunday School in the summer of 1961. At that time it was voted that each teacher of the church school lead his class in a fund raising campaign.

This method has proved to be highly successful. An interesting sidelight was made known at the last collection of offerings. To date, Darlene Smith, a member of the Beginners class, has made the largest individual contribution.

Sheriff Slayer Granted Delay

PITTSBURGH (AP)—John Butler was granted a stay of execution Thursday in the pistol slaying of Sheriff James Lauer of Northumberland County.

The stay was granted by Judge Herbert P. Sorg of U.S. District Court pending final action on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus filed by Butler's attorney, Mrs. Marjorie Matson.

The 33-year-old Butler had been scheduled to die in the electric chair the week of March 5. Lauer was shot with his own pistol near Pittsburgh on May 27, 1959, while transferring Butler to the Western Penitentiary here from Northumberland County to finish serving a term for armed robbery.

An Allegheny County Criminal Court jury convicted Butler on May 20, 1960, and recommended the death penalty.

Moravian Church. They will be serving up the Italian style meal from 4:30 to 7 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 17.

Eating out makes simple fare exotic. A lunch in a booth becomes a big adventure for two little girls who find that other little girls are on the other side of the high booth back. And, who but a little girl would offer to clear the table to help the lady waitress?

Main Topic
The main topic of conversation around the community in one way or another is the "Wedding Gown Revue" set for Valentine's night. Getting more than 50 former brides together in the same place should provide for a rustling and swishing of laces, taffetas and satins that can be heard for miles. The echo will be a permanent thing due to the purchase of books for the Barrett Elementary Center Library from the proceeds.

It is rumored that the "avant garde" women of the community will be forming an organization to establish a civic service club on a level to interest the forward looking young women of Barrett.

Members of the PYA are kicking around some suggestions for future activities. They are working up to a community wide affair which would involve every service club, organization and church in Barrett. This unique group really does think big.

One more note to the early birds thinking of spring cleaning. Herb Larsen is the man to contact for short-cuts to a spanking clean house. And, if those dust bunnies are getting to the point of making noise under the furniture, wave a duster in their general direction and save the house cleaning fever 'til spring. Take a break with a friend over coffee or by phone to keep in touch. Because when spring hits Barrett, the fallout of activity will keep everyone incommunicado for a month.

The painting and other work are already under way, with the men of the grange providing the do-it-yourself labor.

Plans for the annual pancake supper, which some weather prognosticators point out is always the signal for the Blizzard of the Year, were completed, and the date chosen is February 17, with serving to begin at 5 p.m. There will be plenty of pancakes and homemade sausage and scrapple.

Reported on the sick list were Clifford and Glenna Gilpin, Bernice Dolan, Catherine Utter and Nevin Gilpin.

The grange will meet on February 10 in the first of two February meetings, with Robert Krieger, Lillian Hinton and Alvesta and Dave Holdren as the serving committee.

Nicaraguan Expresses Thanks To YF

NEWFOUNDLAND: A letter from Christopher Desouza, president of the Bluefields District Youth Unit, Pearl Lagoon, Nicaragua, was received this week by the Greentown - Newfoundland - South Sterling Youth Fellowship.

The young man expressed the thanks of his district for the gift of $25 sent by the local unit for youth work in the mission fields. He noted that the money will be added to a fund earmarked for a girls' dormitory at Pearl Lagoon, the "conference ground" of the districts.

"We cannot accommodate any more than 125 or 150 now, so your gift we are using toward dormitories," he wrote. "We are also happy to know that we have a group of unknown friends," he said.

Accompanying Christopher's letter was one from Mrs. Lorraine Dreger, who, with her husband, is serving in the mission field at Nicaragua. It was through the Dregers, that the local youth unit became acquainted with the needs of the Nicaragua group.

Mrs. Dreger termed Christopher, "a jewel" — he hasn't had very much formal schooling, but he is a radiant Christian and a very active layman in our congregation.

The letters were read during the meeting at the Moravian Church by the Rev. Larry Lindenmuth. A film, "Rebel With a Cause," was shown. There will be a discussion of the film at the February 11 meeting at 7:30 at the Moravian Church.

It was announced that the District Youth Club practice will be held at Elm Park Church, Scranton, on February 11 instead of at Carbondale. The choir festival on March 4 will also be at Elm Park, instead of at Asbury as originally planned this year.

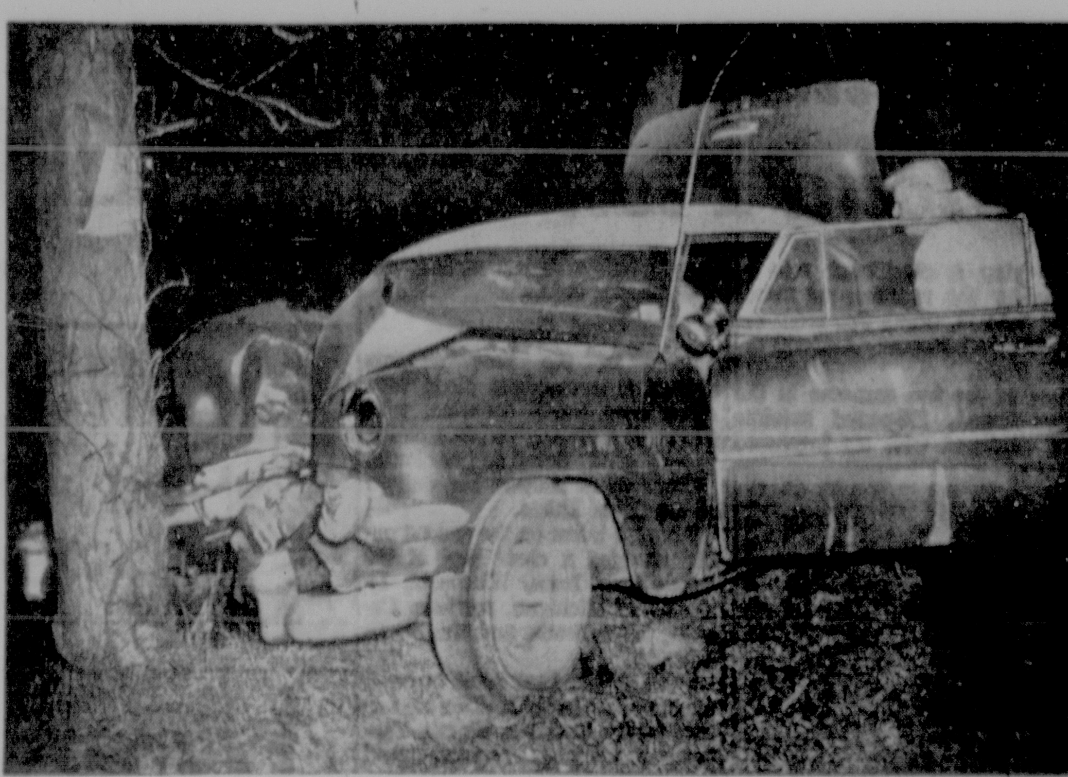

The MYF will have a swimming party at Farm On the Hill, Swiftwater, on February 9, going by bus to the resort for swimming and games from 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.

Larry Kelter led devotions this week.

Area Churches To Cite Scouts

BARRETT — Boy Scout Sunday will be observed in the area churches Sunday, February 11. Boys in Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorer posts will attend their churches of worship.

The members of Explorer Post 99 will attend the Canadensis Moravian Church 11 a.m. worship service in a group, assistant advisor, Richard Krummel announced.

Scott Blasts Administration

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., yesterday described the Kennedy Administration's foreign policy as a hesitant and fitful thing.

Speaking at an Adams County Lincoln Day banquet at Gettysburg, Scott said he could think of no more important theme "than to discuss Republican traditions in foreign policy and to consider how much they are needed today."

"Today, American foreign policy is a hesitant and fitful thing," he said in his prepared remarks. "The Kennedy Administration speaks shrilly and carries no stick at all. America needs leadership with more imagination and a greater appreciation for the destiny of this nation."

Communist Jazz In The Offing

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—The Jazz Association of Belgrade is planning to open the first school for jazz in any Communist country.

The association says the school is needed to improve the tastes in jazz in this country, where Western music has been allowed for many years and now is flourishing. Besides courses for jazz fans, instruction will be given musicians to improve their technique.

Deadline Set For County Wool Growers

WOOL growers are reminded that their applications for payment under the Wool Program must be signed and filed in the county office before April 30, 1962, if they want to receive their incentive payment for this year. This reminder comes from Donald Reish, Chairman of the Monroe County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

According to the chairman, wool sales made after March 31, 1961 and before April 30, 1962, are eligible for payment this year, provided the application for payment has the necessary supporting information filed in the ASC County Office before April 30, 1962.

One of the objectives of the wool incentive payment is to encourage the production of better quality wool and better marketing practices.

All farmers are entitled to the incentive payment regardless of the price they received for their wool. Since the payment rate is a percentage of the net return received by the farmer, therefore, the higher the price received, the greater the incentive payment.

Under the National Wool Act of 1954, wool is recognized as an essential and strategic commodity which is not produced in sufficient quantity in the United States. It is the declared policy of Congress, as a measure of National security and in the promotion of the general economic welfare, to encourage an annual domestic production of approximately 300 million pounds of shorn wool. The Secretary is directed to establish an incentive price for shorn wool which will encourage the larger production.

Attorneys George Spohrer and Vincent Nardone, Wilkes-Barre, are for Kemmerer, U. S. Attorney Bernard Brown and First Assistant Carlton M. O'Malley are for the government.

'Conflicting Claims'

The new Federal budget is the biggest in peacetime history, and beats all but one of the wartime ones. It is described as a budget for economic growth, and certainly there is unanimous agreement that economic growth must improve if we are to have full employment, a rising standard of living, and cold war strength.

Yet, a close examination of the document fails to turn up any budget proposal that would do anything for economic growth. Quite the contrary. Once more the Federal Government proposes to drain away more of the people's income to be devoted to a variety of projects to serve the interests of many special groups of our citizens at the expense of all the others.

Federal spending, it is clear to the experts, is not an addition to our national income. The Government draws the money from the resources of the taxpayers, before it can spend them. If the taxpayers, who earned the money, were allowed to keep more of it, the money would be spent anyway.

Part of it, the taxpayers would spend for the things their families want and need more than they want and need government programs. The rest they would save. What they save would be invested, and invested money is spent for new productive facilities — which constitute economic growth. These new facilities require new workers, and this is the most direct approach to the unemployment problem.

Largely because of Government tax and spend policies, investment has been skidding in America while other countries have been stepping up their own.

From 1957 through the first half of 1961 this is what happened:

Our gross national product increased 15 per cent. Wages and salaries in cash and benefits increased 16 per cent. Government spending at all levels increased by a hefty 23 per cent.

But corporate profits declined four per cent. And investment declined by nine per cent.

This is a serious national problem—one that does not require a new bureau, but cries out for income tax rate reform. President Kennedy, in his budget message, spoke of the "conflicting claims on our national resources." Investment is one of those claims, and should take precedence over more spending programs.

Failure Of Training

One hundred forty-three applicants for membership on the police force of a large city assembled recently to take the required physical tests. Thirty-seven of these young men, slightly more than a fourth of the total number, failed to make the grade and thus lost their chance at the job they wanted.

Did the tests demand unusual athletic prowess? They did not. The youths who failed simply did not measure up to reasonable standards of fitness.

Applicants were expected to climb 20 feet up a rope, do 16 pushups and 27 situps, jump 18 inches higher than the outstretched hand, and run down three flights of stairs and back up in 29 seconds. These tests, though many a middle-aged policeman (or anyone else of that age) might find them difficult, ought to have been duck soup for a youth in good condition.

One should be wary of drawing general conclusions from an incident of this kind. Still, it does not seem out of line to suggest that when 25 per cent of the applicants for police work fail simple physical tests, something is wrong with our system of training. Men in their 20s should be physically fit as a matter of course, and they should also understand the importance of keeping themselves fit. Giving them such understanding is primarily the job of the schools. In many places, the job is not being done as well as it could be done.

Russian Capitalism

During 1961, Soviet Russia played an interesting and to an extent startling role in the gold market. While some American bankers have permitted themselves the luxury of denouncing the significance of gold in the economy of the world, gold has nevertheless played a most significant role and the role that Russian gold played was not ignored by business in other countries.

The economy of the United States is based on gold and no matter what efforts are made to lessen the significance of gold, it stands up in the world market. The United States Government sought to maintain gold at the official price of $35 but gold moved up and down, to a degree due to the appearance of Russian sales. Thus Russia operated capitalistically in the gold market.

During the year 1961, considerable gold was sold through the London market, thus distributing gold to some of the new countries as well as the older ones. The gold trade has been considerable and London maintained a gold exchange although in the United States we attempted to ignore the commodity.

It is interesting to note that the London market received 20,804,600 ounces of refined gold from the United States; 19,506,950 ounces of refined gold from the Union of South Africa; and 5,541,450 ounces of refined gold from Soviet Russia.

The total amount of refined gold that was imported into the London market amounted to 46,710,400 ounces with Soviet Russia in the third place. This gives Soviet Russia an important position in the world market. The value of the Russian export into the British market was close to $200,000,000, which gives Russia an enormous purchasing power in the Western markets.

This export of gold to London cannot be exclusive; there must have been an export to Zurich and Amsterdam. It is this gold which has made it possible for Soviet Russia to buy steel pipe which will become increasingly significant as the Russians build pipe-lines to carry oil into Central and Western Europe. This is likely to develop into a very important business in which American firms are engaged.

It is impossible to understand the politics of the world without a thorough mastery of its economics. Russia is utilizing capitalist methods everywhere. What the Soviet Universal State represents now is a capitalist competitor with Western countries, battling for the rich markets of Central and Western Europe, as well as the American markets from Canada to the Argentine.

It is this economic realism which affects the position not only of money but of goods and the power of Soviet Russia must be measured in terms of economic distribution, particularly the distribution of gold. It is to be admitted that there are many Communists of importance, like Suvlov who regard Khrushchev's neo-capitalism as dangerous because it can lessen the significance of Marxism. There will be a great quarrel in Russia over this question of co-existence.

Those who ignore the significance of gold in the world market only create confusion. They are as confused in their thinking as those who believe that it is possible to ignore tariffs, while tariffs exist.

The question must arise as to whether Russia will dump gold into Western markets at prices which will drive the price of gold below $35, thus impoverishing the United States and all Western countries by running down the price of currency which internationally is determined by the value of gold. Russia's production may be priced politically rather than economically.

Those who believe that Soviet Russia seeks to destroy the capitalist world by force and violence do not understand the world in which they live.

More can be done with gold than with violence; more can be done with the erection of steel mills, using American money for that purpose, than by agitational efforts in the United States. Soviet Russia is using every method, including American, British, German and other Western bankers and manufacturers who become dupes in the Russian effort to destroy them by the use of their own tools. Capitalists are naturally avaricious, seeking a profit quickly and leaving to the future whatever happens. The Russians take advantage of that characteristic which serves them well.

It is a correct statement that Communism will employ any means, good or bad, correct or evil, to gain its point which is the conquest of the entire world by the Soviet Universal State.

Legislative Mayhem

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Reporter's Notebook:

Legislative Mayhem—This was the week of legislative twitches; in one respect a display of somewhat ridiculous modus operandi—and goodness knows what else it could be called! . . . It all developed over a single legislative move.

When the session opened for the week on Monday, the minority GOP bloc in the House—as one and all well knew would happen—introduced its proposed amendment to the general appropriation bill, providing for some $9 million in "lost" school subsidies to local districts.

Administration Democrats in the House opposing the Republican proposal labeled the legislation "unconstitutional" . . . And—administration Democrats, not to be caught napping at the switch in sponsoring a move that would smack remotely of any financial handout, introduced their own "lost school aid" amendment—but this provided an indefinite sum dependent on any "surplus" available at the end of the 1961-62 fiscal year . . . Republican lawmakers labeled this bill unconstitutional.

Curiously, here's a case of lawmakers on both sides of the aisle declaring both pieces of legislation "unconstitutional" — yet both bills passed—the GOP piece by a vote of 166-33 and the Democratic tidbit by a vote of 195-31 . . . For two supposedly "unconstitutional" pieces of legislation, lawmakers seemingly pulled the stops on this one!

But there was yet another curious twist . . . Veteran House Speaker Hiram G. Andrews took to the microphone to urge leaders of both sides to sit down and chew the thing over with the Governor in arriving at a solution.

Interesting part about this move is that House Speaker Andrews has been one of the staunchest of champions of the constitutional separation of the legislative and executive branches—that each has its own chore to do independently of the other!

Tooting Horns And Trumpets—In a flurry of telegrams, news releases and nose-blowings, Congressman James E. Van Zandt finally this week announced his formal candidacy for the Pennsylvania GOP U.S. senatorial nod—in a combo with Superior Court Judge Robert E. Woodside as the gubernatorial hopeful.

To reader(s) of this column it shouldn't have been too earth-shattering a note, for back on January 12 we said (while everyone had him pegged strictly for the governorship):

"Capitol Hill dopesters were somewhat amused this week by the announcement over the week end of U.S. Congressman James Van Zandt of Altoona, that he would be a candidate for reelection this year to his 20th Congressional District seat—and not only that, but egad, if the boys in the back room wanted him he would also be a candidate for Governor or U.S. Senator."

"However—indications point strongly that veteran GOPolitic Van Zandt ultimately may get the nod for the U.S. Senate in a fight for the seat now held by Philadelphia Democrat Joseph S. Clark."

A Case For The "Feds"—Almost—The other day Elk County Representative Bill Renwick stopped us in one of the Capitol corridors and asked us if we had change for a twenty-dollar bill . . . Mustering all our liquid assets, we found two tens and the exchange was made.

That evening we stopped in a local drug store on our way home, picked up a couple packs of cigarettes and handed drug store owner Tom Polk (who thank goodness happens to be our neighbor) the "Renwick $20-bill" . . . Tom looked at the bill, checked his cash register, and then:

"Better remember where you got this, Mase old boy. This looks like one of those counterfeiters they've been passing out. See that 'BO' at the beginning of the serial number? That's where the counterfeiters have been coming in. I'll check it out."

For a moment we rubbed our hands, thinking silently, here's where we turn the Feds on that guy Renwick; boy we'll fix him . . . However—and alas—the numbers weren't in the counterfeit group! . . . (When Renwick reads this, it will be the first time he knew anything about it.)

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

The Republican Party in Monroe County is guided by the Parke Unangst, East Stroudsburg druggist, and Mrs. Mary Fontanella, the mountain's contribution to political affairs.

Thus far it has proved sufficient as Unangst delegates duties to the male members of the party and Mrs. Fontanella charms the women's side. But it is Unangst who casts the vote at higher party sessions after, of course, indoctrination by financial supporters who prefer to be in the background.

In the past few years the Republicans have had their troubles with county chairmen. It wasn't the chairmen's fault. It just so happened that all within his realm did not agree with the policies and candidates offered.

If the number of candidates means anything the GOP county delegation appears healthy. For example there are two announced aspirants for the State General Assembly. Jack Mullins, Stroudsburg businessman, and Gerald Snyder, a school teacher, have tossed their hats into the ring.

Also there is a good chance that Cliff Heller, a Stroudsburg plant executive, will join the race which could be a close as a Whirlaway, Seabiscuit, and Citation affair.

We always maintained that the Primary should have more than one candidate so the voter has a chance to look over a wider field. If the GOP follows through with Mullins, Heller and Snyder in the post positions a lively Primary is in the offing.

Then, of course, Unangst and Mrs. Fontanella will have to band the two losers together with the winners for an all-out fight in November against incumbent Van D. Yetter or whomever the Democrats nominate.

Right now patronage on the state level doesn't worry the county's GOP brass. After all Harrisburg hasn't seen a Republican governor since John Fine went out of office seven years ago. These political plums have a way of balancing, however, when you realize there were little patronage problems on a national scale under the administrations of Dwight Eisenhower.

It is in the immediate county that the leaders can gain stature, especially when they have jobs to reward their workers for getting out the vote.

Back in the old days maneuvers were made in smoke-filled, back rooms. Today the GOP aligns its forces at Koffee Klatches. Hoping, we imagine, they can see through to victory on a clear day.

The Allen-Scott Report

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington—The powerful 18-man Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy is throwing its weight behind the resumption of nuclear tests in the atmosphere this spring.

Representative Chat Hallfield, D., Calif., chairman, is notifying President Kennedy that the committee's 10 Democrats and 8

Urge Resumption Of Nuclear Tests

Republicans favor ending the 3½-year ban on these atomic tests.

The bipartisan group favors resuming tests as soon as preparations are completed in April by Joint Task Force Eight. Under the direction of Major General Alfred D. Starbird, this atomic task force is now gathering ships, planes, atomic experts and bombs for the new series of air and water tests in the Pacific. The unanimous committee support is being made known to the President in the form of a letter that may already be on his desk. If not, it will be delivered within a few days.

Committee sources report that its members are interjecting their powerful voice into the sharp policy dispute over testing now raging inside the Kennedy administration, in an effort to tip the scales in favor of a resumption of tests.

Joint committee members are concerned that if no test announcement is made before March 14, when the 10-nation disarmament conference opens in Geneva, the Russians will mousetrap the U.S. into another disastrous delay.

This opinion also is shared by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Central Intelligence Director John McConne. They are arguing that the U.S. should resume atmospheric nuclear tests as soon as humanly possible. This must be done to keep the U.S. from falling behind the Soviet Union in the life-and-death atomic weapons race.

Russia's recent series of 56 nuclear tests has left the U.S. with only a razor-thin superiority edge in overall atomic weapons, according to these atomic experts. In the field of anti-missile missile warheads, the Soviet tests may have put the Russians ahead.

The Other Side—The supporters of testing are being vigorously opposed by a group of anti-testing officials led by Dr. Jerome Wiesner, the President's scientific adviser and the No. 1 opponent to placing the Army's Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile in production.

Included in the Wiesner group are Adlai Stevenson, U.S. representative at the United Nations; Secretary of State Dean Rusk; and McGeorge Bundy, the President's chief foreign policy adviser in the White House.

These opponents of above-the-ground testing are urging the President to make no final decision until after Soviet Premier Khrushchev shows his hand at the Geneva conference.

Their plea is that Khrushchev may be ready to agree to a new series of atomic test ban talks once the March 5 meeting of the Communist Party's Central Committee in Moscow is under his belt.

This "soft" position has so enraged some members of the Joint Committee, who also sit on the House Armed Services Committee, that they are seriously considering calling Dr. Wiesner and Ambassador Stevenson before one of the committees.

The legislators want to know why two officials continue to urge a testing delay in the light of past Soviet refusals to agree to an acceptable test-ban treaty with air-tight-inspection guarantees.

A move is also underway within the House Armed Services Committee to have its members send a letter similar to the Joint Atomic Committee's to the President urging immediate resumption of tests.

Atomic Mystery — Representative Melvin Price, D., Ill., who favors resuming above-the-ground tests, is quietly investigating why President Kennedy called off a series of small underwater nuclear tests in the fall of 1961.

Details gathered by Representative Price's Joint Atomic Subcommittee show that a Navy task force sailed into the Pacific last fall to test new warheads for an anti-submarine weapon. However, before the first weapon could be exploded, orders came from the White House not to make the test. The fleet returned: Mission unaccomplished.

Representative Price wants to know what role, if any, Dr. Wiesner played in calling off these experiments. He already has established that Wiesner influenced the President to "fax" the atomic-powered airplane project.

Atomic Fallout—The Defense Department and the Atomic Energy Commission have set aside $100 million for the new series of tests. Once the green light is flashed, the tests will be conducted at Johnston, Christmas and Kwajalein Islands in the Central Pacific . . . The testing of an atomic warhead for the Army's Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile will be one of the first tests . . . The Navy has five different types of anti-submarine warfare weapons that her experts want tested.

Inside You And Yours

Nervous Headaches Hurt

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.

What do you mean, "It's all nerves"? My head really aches!

Of course! Tension headaches feel like a steel band tightening around the head or a heavy weight dragging down the back of the skull.

Nagging worry, an 18-hour work day, stuffy room or lack of sleep can all tense scalp, neck or face muscles painfully. Through common nerve roots, irritation inside the abdomen can bring on these tension headaches.

Menstrual flow, female troubles and the change are all common offenders.

Tension, allergy and other conditions bring on migraine's sick headaches. They feel like a sledge hammer pounding inside half — sometimes both halves of the skull.

Blood Vessels Tighten — Migraine begins when blood vessels automatically tighten into spasms. You feel dull, dizzy and moody. Spasm in different vessels temporarily cuts off vital circulation.

You may feel an appendicitis-like pain, be unable to talk, or turn ghostly white. Sparkling lights often flash in front of half blind eyes. And you may drool and tear.

Soon, overworked vessels poop out and relax—especially larger ones. Blood roars up wide open arteries and thunders into tiny tense vessels inside the head. You feel like you're inside a beating bass drum.

More Frequent In Women — Female hormones probably explain why women are especially susceptible menstrual flow magnifies migraine but the headaches stop when Mom's expecting, nursing or through the change.

Aspirin and ice packs help soothe most headaches. Tranquilizing prescriptions can calm inner tension. So can phony pills, if you believe in them. Gentle muscle spasm.

Migraines throb — bring stops when ergot medicines tighten relaxed arteries. Or when a tight head bandage narrows throbbing arteries on the temple.

Your doctor can track down allergy and other trouble that may be causing your headaches. If you simply have too much on your mind, he can lighten the load, help your "nerves", and cure real pain!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

From Drew Pearson's Washington pillar: "Top Chicago gangsters lead by Summit Conference at Miami. The mobsters who rule Chicago's rackets have suddenly departed for Miami en masse, for what may be another crime convention like the notorious 1957 gathering at Apalachin, N.Y."

Mr. Pearson must be mistaken. Didn't he see the editorial spanking "The Untouchables" series (and its narrator) in Chicago's American? It assured its New York Correspondent that "Chicago is not like that anymore."

Sports page ace Jim Murray's quote: "I hate to keep putting the knock on some cities. But I had an old editor once who said to keep telling the truth even if it got monotonous."

H. G. Wells would've applauded that. He said: "You can't shoot the truth."

The AP reported: "In his address the President of Argentina urged his people to 'continue your support of law and order.'" Why didn't Mr. Phoney support it at Uruguay?

From an editorial: "The U.S. cannot claim a victory over Castro, when Argentina, Brazil and Mexico remain his friends." Washington historian Robert Hartmann logic: How can you expect their trust and respect? At the very time our diplomats were warning them about Communism—Khrushchev's daughter and son-in-law were being entertained in the White House by President and Mrs. Kennedy!

Uncommon sense from The Oneonta (N.Y.) Star: "There is a question in many open minds today whether the greatest danger to our United States is from the Reds of communism or from the blues on the right. Each seems to believe it is right and it is the rest of us who are crazy."

Bravo!!!!!!

From a syndicated column: "Comedienne R. Warren tells of two camels on the desert and one said to the other, 'I don't care 'what anybody says, I'm thirsty.'"

You put that right back where your depress-agent read it.

Phyllis Battelle's corner in the N.Y. Journal American: "Have you ever turned on the radio and felt that the world was being taken over by the no-talent kids? It wouldn't be so bad if they had no-talent, quietly."

You should see the regiments of entees who have no trouble getting on teevee. They aren't good enough to be called amateurs. The big plug pay-off, however, often gets them booked into the desperate-for-a-name joints. Such as the Crescendo-Interlude sector in Hollywood where one tv "discovery" was cancelled after 3 pers.

From the N.Y. Mirror: "New Traffic Commissioner Barnes says he'll spend two hours every morning and afternoon cruising the city to size up the trouble spots."

Just about enough time to get crosstown.

Adlai Stevenson's quote: "The work of America's Rightwingers is just one more case of perpetual emotion."

The "perpetual emotion" phrase is just one more example of the U.N.'s No. 1 wit using a stale quip.

Jim Lombard tells about the tender hearted motorist who accidentally ran over a hare, stopped his car, and ran back to see if he could help the poor animal. The hare was hurt but miraculously still alive. The motorist whipped out his pocket flask and gave the hare a swig of its contents. A moment later the hare, seemingly in the pink again, bounded happily off into a thicket.

"Amazing," commented the motorist's companion, "What on earth does that flask of your contain?"

The motorist answered "Hare restorer."

CAN YOU paddle your own canoe? This is one handicraft to be exhibited by the Stroud Union High School Industrial art students in schools' gym in April. These "do-it-yourselfers" are also making a chest of drawers, lamps, leather bowling bags, and tools for the display.

John Montgomery, head of the department, defines industrial arts as "The study of the tools, materials, and processes of industry. Seventh and Eighth Grade boys are required to take this course. While Albert Cross assists the Seventh Grade in making projects of wood and plastic, John DeVivo teaches the Eighth Grade boys leathercraft.

Several boys with carved leather projects have won state and national honors. In 1958 Larry Flick's ladies' hand bag won first prize at Gimble Brothers, Philadelphia, and $20 honorable mention at Ford in Dearborn, Michigan. Park Kunkle Jr.'s hand bag won first prize at Gimble Brothers and $50 second prize in Dearborn, Michigan in 1959. A wallet made by Teddy Wertheimer received second prize at Gimble Brothers in 1960.

Shop is an elective for senior high boys. Working with wood in Gordon Taylor's department, the Ninth and Eleventh Graders may make such things as gun racks and jewelry boxes.

Tenth Grade boys under Cross' supervision complete required work in metal shop. Each learns the basic skills of forging, are welding, oxygen acetylene welding, sheet metal working, and bench metal working.

By a student's senior year he's able to design his own patterns, make the wooden forms, and mold and finish the product in metal. Montgomery is head of the metal shop and teaches mechanical drawing.

The students take field trips to explore the various areas of industry. They visit International Boiler Works, Williamsport Technical Institute, LeAnna Wood Craft and hope to visit a house construction. These trips enable the students to choose the phase of industry which they later wish to enter.

Soil Conservationists' Top Hurdle Was Farmers

Second In Series
THE "Powerless" Government—the biggest hurdle facing soil conservation organizers was finding a way to work with farmers without offending their traditional independence. A series of failures taught soil conservation leaders that American farmers could neither be told by government "experts" or taught by watching demonstrations in which they had no active part. A way had to be found to gain the farmer's confidence—a way to work with him rather than for him.

Teaming-up farmers with government technicians was not completely new. Committees of local farmers were already being used as sounding boards for some agency programs. But soil conservation organizers visualized something more than just another farmer committee. Land management agencies were developing in a haphazard, piecemeal fashion. Looking ahead, conservationists saw that a fodgepodge of service administered by different agencies would confuse farmers.

A separate grass-roots government organization that could tie together all government agencies and private organizations was needed. It was felt that leading farmers, should direct this organization and adapt the services of government technicians to their local situations. This philosophy gave birth to a new type of agricultural organization, the soil conservation district.

Pennsylvania's soil conservation districts were set up under Act 217 of the 1945 General Assembly. Unlike most states, county commissioners have the responsibility of establishing districts and appointing the governing body of district directors. Four directors are farmers nominated by county-wide farm organizations and one is a county commissioner appointed by the commissioners themselves.

Without exception, a soil conservation district is a voluntary organization. District directors serve without pay. Over the years, government agency representatives and private organizations and individuals have also

Paupack Accepts Job Bid

HAWLEY — The Wallenpaupack Area Joint School Board, meeting at the high school, accepted the bid of I & G Construction Company, Honesdale, for clearance of the 30-acre site of the new area joint high school.

The company's low bid of $2,296.00 won them the job from among twelve bidders, with bids for the job ranging downward from a high of $31,325.

The contract will be awarded after approval is secured from the architects, attorneys, and with submission of a bid bond.

Clearance of the actual school building site will be done first. Bids for the building are to be called for in April, and completion of the more than two million dollar school is expected in time for the Fall term in 1963.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jackson, of Paupack Township, was named to succeed the late Mrs. Margaret K. Okon in the office of joint board secretary. Her salary was set at $3,000. Mrs. Martha Vogler was named a part-time clerk to take care of the school lunch and milk program book work, working approximately a day and a half each month.

Mrs. Grace Frick, Paupack, was seated on the board to fill Mrs. Okon's unexpired term.

A proposal that Roland Seller, Hawley, be named as elementary supervisor was tabled for further study. An audit as of January 15 was approved and will be carried out.

There will be a special meeting of the building committee on February 12 at Hawley High School at 7:30 p.m. This will be followed on February 14 by a special board meeting to act on Students taking the course now are Patricia Pysher, Peter Mear, Lucille Williams, Mary Campbell, Eileen Schell, Barbara Smith, Dianne Snyder, Bonnie Fenick, and Edmund La Bar.

In addition to required work, the shop students do most of the school's printing, print report cards for the elementary schools and repair the shop equipment.

They are now making some stage scenery for the senior play, "George Washington Slept Here," to be given this month.

I AM NEW in my area and want to know how to go about selecting a dentist?

There are several reliable methods of obtaining names of reputable dentists in your area:

1. Telephone the office of the local dental society, if one is listed in the telephone book, and ask for the names of several qualified dentists. If there is no listing, write the American Dental Association, 222 East Superior St., Chicago 11, Ill., for information.

2. Ask your physician to recommend several qualified dentists.

4. Consult the American Dental Directory, which is available in libraries and hospitals, to learn the background of the dentist. This directory lists alphabetically and geographically every dentist in the United States and provides information concerning age, school attended, year of graduation, nature of practice and membership in the American Dental Association.

When I took my three-year-old child to the dentist for the first time, the dentist insisted I stay in the waiting room while he examined my child. Why is this?

Most dentists find the child will accept dental treatment more readily if parents are not present. Dentists also prefer that you bring the child in before any trouble develops so

Mother Of Two Children

ESSC Student Wins Harvard Schooling

By Alice Hastings

AN elementary curriculum major from the East Stroudsburg State College has captured one of the nine graduate scholarships offered by Harvard University and competed for by 365 students from 90 colleges and universities. She is Edith (Mrs. Walter) Bjorn, a young matron and the mother of two sons.

"I took a test down at Lehigh University in early November — along with several hundred other hopefuls," she recalls happily. "But — when I didn't hear in December nor in January — I thought the dream was over. Then just yesterday — I was notified!"

Ninety Colleges Participate

The scholarship covers full tuition for four consecutive summers at Harvard. Mrs. Bjorn receives her B. S. from ESSC in August, and in the following summer of '63 she starts working at Harvard for her master in education. Her intention is to get a masters in psychology and guidance for elementary grades.

This year the graduate school of education at Harvard presented two fellowships and nine scholarships to be competed for by the top four students in ninety leading colleges and universities in the Middle-Atlantic and North-Central areas. These institutions submitted 365 candidates. Each one had to have three references, a complete personnel file and had to take the Miller Analogies Test.

'Surprise' Entry

"Dr. Eugene Powers who is head of ESSC's education department, sent my name and file in to Cambridge without my knowing it," she confesses. "I would never have thought of asking him to do it . . . but I'm certainly glad he did."

The scholarship winner is the wife of Walter Bjorn, a history teacher at Stroud Union High School.

"Wait and I met while we were attending ESSC. I am from suburban Philadelphia, and he is from Damascus — that's in Wayne County.

We married in '56 and I left college. Wait stayed and got a degree in physical education in 1957, then took his masters in physical ed and administration out at Ohio University.

"While this was going on, I had two children . . . Kenny, who is almost five, and Tommy who's about to be three. Last year I came back to college, and, as I said — I'll get my degree — AT LAST — in August."

To Write Children's Books

The Bjorns live at 2054 Miller St., Stroudsburg, in a modest, two story house. Of course they believe in "togetherness" so they are planning to rent a cottage somewhere around Cambridge the summers Edith studies at Harvard.

At present Mrs. Bjorn is doing her stint of student teaching. The college placed her in the third and fourth grades at Delaware Water Gap, where she teaches about ten hours a week. "I love it!" she declares. "But then — I knew I would."

One of her long range ambitions is to write a few "good" children's books. She believes that many children's stories published today are meaningless.

"Naturally, children's stories should have humor and fun, but they should also have a point to them. That's the kind my boys enjoy most — and somehow I think Tom and Ken are rather typical."

Postal Rates To Rise

(Special to The Record)

NEW YORK — For business firms and individuals in Stroudsburg, the use of the mails will cost an estimated $218,670 in the next fiscal year.

The amount is based on an increase in rates asked for by President Kennedy and already approved by the House. Similar action, with possible minor adjustments, is also expected to be taken shortly by the Senate.

It calls for increases in first, second and third class mails totaling $701 million a year.

The $34.917 share of this hike that local residents will have to assume represents an increase of some 19 per cent over their expenditures last year.

Amounted To $183,753

In fiscal 1961, according to the official Post Office Department figures, mail costs locally amounted to $183,753. They will rise to an estimated $218,670 under the new bill. This assumes average, normal conditions in the city.

The principal change, as far as most individuals are concerned, is that it will cost a nickel instead of four cents to mail a letter. Post cards and air mail will also go up one cent.

The total increase in these first class categories comes to $455 million.

Newspapers, magazines and other business enterprises that use the mails are also vitally concerned. The increase of over $53 million in second class rates that is scheduled will add a heavy burden to many of them, they contend.

Third class mail, which covers bulk mailings, is in for a $161 million boost, much more than the administration asked for. There will be no rise in fourth class.

Claims Business Title

In urging the revision in mail rates, the government held that the postal service is a business and should be operated as such, with revenues sufficient to cover expenses.

Opponents to the increases argue that it is a public service and that any additional funds needed for its operation should come from the general revenues, just as do the expenses of other government agencies.

Those who are protesting the increase in letter mail to five cents point out that the Post Office Department is at least breaking even in this category right now and that the proposed rise would yield a 25 per cent profit for first class.

Harrisburg CLU Backs Dilworth

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Harrisburg Central Labor Council endorsed Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth Thursday as its choice for the Democratic nomination for governor of Pennsylvania.

The council adopted a resolution calling on Democrats in Dauphin, Perry and Cumberland counties to cast their ballots for Dilworth in the primary election May 15.

Dilworth is expected to announce his candidacy officially next Monday at a press conference in Philadelphia.

The Harrisburg council is the second labor organization within a week to throw its support behind Dilworth. The Pennsylvania AFL-CIO endorsed the Philadelphia mayor last Thursday.

MODERNITY AND WARMTH — Because of its charming exterior, this three-bedroom home retains the warmth often sacrificed in other bi-level designs. The L-shaped floor plan makes the house appear a good deal larger than it's 1,393 square feet. Dimensions are 49 feet, two inches wide by 50 feet, nine inches deep.

Bi-Level Retains Charm

By JULES LOH
ALEXANDER POPE's sound advice about being neither the first to try the new nor the last to discard the old seems to have special application in the field of home architecture.
The economical bi-level design — home architecture's latest advance, but by now a respectable member of the family — combines with a more traditional exterior in this modest house to produce a three-bedroom home which has both modernity and warmth. It is design J-5 in the House of the Week series.
"The box-like appearance of most bi-levels struck me as the only drawback to the excellent idea," said architect Lester Cohen. "My aim in this house was to avoid that fault by substituting a type of exterior that already has stood the test of time and will be popular for years to come."

To help accomplish this, Cohen developed his plan from front to back rather than the more customary side-to-side bi-level design with the living area on one side and the sleeping area on the other.
The sleeping wing of this house is in the rear; and the width of the house is only 49 feet 2 inches, which means it will fit comfortably on a 50 foot lot. Depth of the house is 50 feet 9 inches and its ground cover is 1,393 square feet.

Another innovation in this design is that the living room is dropped the one step below the foyer. The rest of the living level is four steps above the foyer. If you wanted to be literal about it, this "bi-level" house actually is on three levels.
The basement extends beneath all the house except the living room and garage, and is raised out of the ground slightly to permit ample light and ventilation within the foundation walls — the hallmark of bi-level construction.

Additional Details
Taken as a unit, the front portion of this house — living room, dining room and foyer — presents a spacious expanse unusual in homes of this size.

The dining room looks out over a balcony to the foyer and living room in an unbroken view spanning the entire width of the house. The living room, with a large fireplace on one side complemented by a large picture window on the other, also extends through sliding glass doors to a patio which in pleasant weather almost becomes a part of the room. The foyer, too, is a continuation of the flagstone construction of the covered front porch, thus integrating indoor and outdoor living in another respect. The kitchen, with its own outdoor entrance (one of four exterior entrances), is located nicely between the living and sleeping areas, handy to both.

Bathroom facilities are more than adequate in this three-bedroom home. Besides the main bath, there is a half-bath adjoining the master bedroom and a lavatory on the lower level. All the plumbing, incidentally, is on the same line — a mark of economical planning.

The lower level features a recreation room of about 400 square feet across the entire rear of the house. Double pairs of sliding doors open onto a sunken backyard terrace.

The remainder of the lower level contains a laundry with plenty of space for a workbench or hobby room, plus an abundance of basement storage area. Other storage facilities, including closets, are likewise ample — especially the area in the rear of the extra long garage which is convenient to the patio.

For all its economical features, this house has many of the characteristics, including the appearance, of more expensive homes and would be handsome on any suburban lot.

J-5 STATISTICS
A three-bedroom bi-level home with one full bath, half-bath off master bedroom and lavatory on lower level; separate dining room, foyer, 20 feet by 13 feet, 4 inches living room, attached garage.
Ground cover of house is 1,393 square feet in overall dimensions of 49 feet, 2 inches wide by 50 feet, 9 inches deep.

Tip On How To Warm A Color

TO MAKE any paint color except green look "warmer," add a little red to it. To warm green, add a little yellow. Conversely, to cool pink, green or gray, add a little blue.

A very little green plus a touch of blue will cool ivory, yellow, cream and tan. If you are adding actual paint, use the same type as the main color; add alkylid to alkylid, oil to oil, latex to latex.

If you are using a colorant, be sure it is compatible with the paint. The label will tell you.

No Cracks

If your light switches are to be painted along with the walls, remove the switches and paint them separately. Thus, if they ever have to be removed, this can be done without cracking the paint around the edges.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

I should remember to cultivate a certain decorum about certain things. For instance when Miss Wyckoff called to ask if I'd speak to the Shawnee Presbyterian Aux., I could have at least pretended to consult a date book instead of carolling "Oh, I'd love to! When?" It sounds so eager.

Actually I was eager to see Ruth Browne's slides of our trip again myself. It somehow seems so far away and long ago and I still can't quite believe that I spent one whole summer with no responsibilities, except to enjoy the riches each day offered.

Everything gets so terrifically involved: checkbooks and dishes and meetings and work and the house. That house! It seemed reasonable when I let the kids talk me into some minor repairs: just new linoleum in the kitchen so we don't trip over it and fix the falling plaster on the living room ceiling.

But there's no end to it. New linoleum meant the doors don't fit and the walls really look shabby now. And the new ceiling and you can't match the faded paint so that means the other half has to be painted and so does the hallway and the next thing you know we'll be up through the roof.

It did me good to be reminded that once upon a time I just took off and the world didn't end, the house didn't fall down, society in Monroe County was well-regulated and as busy as ever, the paper came out every day, and my family thrived.

Maybe I could even say "No" to something once in a while, and nothing drastic would happen. But I'm sure glad I didn't say no to that particular invitation. It was fun seeing all the people, and Peg Clapper's house is darling, and so clean that even crawling around under the furniture fastening the plug for the projector we didn't raise any dust, and the "square" heart salads were delicious.

Scouts Test Recipes To Promote Cookie Sales

Any local home without at least one of each variety of Girl Scout cookies either is in a neighborhood where there are no girls from 7 through 14, have no friends with daughters that age, or don't answer the door bell.

Anyway, there is no doubt that the cookie sale is on, and the Senior Scouts of Troop 314, now taking Advanced Cooking under the direction of Miss Margaret MacLaren, have tested several of the recipes using Girl Scout cookies, just in case the customers get tired of eating them "as is."

They made the desserts as part of a supper which they prepared on Wednesday night at the home of their leader, Mrs. Clifford Kintner, Crystal St., East Stroudsburg, with Miss MacLaren and Mrs. Harry Heller as their adult guests.

Their supper menu included chili con carne with crackers; a tossed salad with French dressings, and fresh fruit cup with date and nut roll made from the vanilla cookies. For good measure the girls also made Chocolate Cream Ice Box Cake also using the vanilla cookies. The recipes for both are listed below:

Date and Nut Roll
1 doz. Girl Scout cookies—broken but not too fine.
¼ cup chopped dates.
14 marshmallows cut up.
1 cup chopped nuts.
½ cup whipped cream.
Combine the above, saving ¼ cup crumbs. Mix well and roll up with ¼ cup crumbs on the outside, wrap in waxed paper and put in refrigerator at least 5 hours. Cut in slices and top with whipped cream.
Chocolate Cream Ice Box Cake
1 cup heavy cream.
¼ cup sugar.
½ cup instant sweet cocoa mix, or
¼ cup cocoa and ½ cup sugar, dash of salt.
12 teaspoon vanilla.
12 vanilla Girl Scout cookies.
Whip cream mixed with cocoa mix or cocoa and sugar, salt, and vanilla until thick. Spread some of the mixture on each cookie and put them together in a stack or roll, placing it on a platter or refrigerator dish. Frost outside with remaining chocolate cream. Store in refrigerator eight hours or overnight, then cut in diagonal slices about 1 inch thick. For Mocha Roll add 1 to 2 teaspoons instant coffee to the cream mixture. Serve with chocolate sauce.

Changing Society Aides Responsibilities To Schools Cartwright Tells PTA's

When society changes, it dictates changes in the schools. John S. Cartwright, superintendent of schools of Allentown, told 175 members of the combined Parent Teachers Assns. of Stroud Union School District at their Founders Day meeting at the Arlington Heights School this week.

When the homes surrendered to the schools the responsibility for teaching their children not only a trade and how to become homemakers but also the teaching of morals, everybody lost something, Mr. Cartwright said.

In a frontier country, short-term schools taught the three Rs while the boys, helping with the farm, or the girls, helping with housework, learned a trade and a way of life. With the changing times, he pointed out, the schools must now provide a long-time controlled environment to enable the children to live in today's world.

Parents have requested and the school has provided remedial services in reading, and psychological services. They also are asking more of the high school, 45% of whose graduates go to college with the remainder having only high school to prepare them for life and making a living, he said.

Moreover, he pointed out, the burden for paying for that education is falling more and more on a proportionately smaller wage-earning group as more of the population is under 20 or over 65.

Parents' Part
The home can still make a vital contribution, Cartwright said, to education by:

1. Providing a good climate of the right reading, the right

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

Scandal in Wyckoff's . . . a certain young executive has stolen Amy Eilenberger's heart, and it's the subject of store-wide gossip!

Maybe I should hasten to explain that it's all very innocent . . . not at all as it sounds, really . . . yet the facts as stated are simple, unvarnished, and truthful. It seems that Amy is attending the Notions Show in New York this week and, since she is one of the cleverest, most artistic of our Wyckoff employees, this certain YE (young executive) decided she should most certainly be represented in our Employees' Hobby Show.

Amy, as you have probably observed, is always promoting her merchandise by using baskets, ribbons, laces, braids, buttons, threads and yarns to fashion unique center-pieces, wreaths for the door, gift wrappings, or other decorations. At Christmas she gilded straw hats, rimmed them with bands of red flowers and red silk apples, and hung them in our Millinery department. In her own department, arrangements were so unusual customers bought them . . . yet all of them were simple and gay. So very simple, as a matter of fact, many of us wondered why WE couldn't have thought of them.

In Amy's absence our Hobby Show Talent Scout, began searching her department for some of her work, and found it—in the form of a big Valentine heart suspended in front of the recessed mirror above her ribbon display. He laid claim to it, and next thing anyone knew it was hanging above Dottie Dunn's cup collection in our Art Supplies store as Exhibit 80. It is a pretty thing . . . inexpensive too, being made over a styrofoam base. The covering is white frills which, on close observation, prove to be plastic bags (such as one finds around dry cleaning) finely shredded. In the center is a sheaf of red rosebuds, matching the bright red ribbon with which you can hang it above the mantel, on the front door, or over the bed.

Amy isn't going to approve . . . everyone's sure of that! I'll almost best she'll grumble a bit, snatch her heart right back, and do a bit of scouting for a certain scalp. In the meantime, we are all enjoying her artistry, and thinking her a mighty clever gal. She is really gifted . . . but she has a level head on her shoulders, and somehow you just can't steal the heart from such a woman unless she's willing.

I do hope I'm not predicting disaster . . . but maybe you'd better hurry in to see our Hobby Show. It may be dismantled a lot faster than anyone expects!

Dear Abby

It's Up To You, Lady!

Dear Abby: I recently married a 42-year-old man who acts like he's 90. Before we were married, I did hear a little about what terrific condition he was in. Now his excuse is that he led such an active life when he was single. It must have slowed him down. I am 33 and far from ready to sit and knit while he reads. His doctor says he's fit as a fiddle. I am seriously considering getting myself a boy friend.

NOT KIDDING

Dear Not: If your husband is fit as a fiddle, you don't need a new bear. What you need is a little imagination. Take the lead and stir up some excitement.

Dear Abby: I am a 15-year-old girl. My boy friend is the same age. His birthday is coming up soon and I want to give him a present. I don't get a regular allowance. I did earn a little money babysitting, but that all went for cosmetics and things like that. I asked my Dad if he would give me about $20 so I could buy my boy friend a sweater and all I got was a big lecture about how the kids of today don't know the value of a dollar... all that jazz. You'd think I had asked him for a million dollars. Can you put something in your column to let my father know that times have changed and that $20 is no big deal any more?

BUGGED

Dear Bugged: If $20 is "no big deal anymore," why didn't you save it? At the present babysitting rates, it shouldn't have taken you long—if you had really wanted to. Your father is right.

Dear Abby: Ross and I went together for two years. He is 29 and I am 24. I knew all along I wasn't in love with him, but I didn't want to hurt his feelings because he was so completely in love with me.

Finally, I couldn't put off his proposals any longer. I told him I thought of him only as a "friend" and I didn't think I should see him any more. He cried like a baby, so I agreed to date him if he could be just "friends." He begs me to kiss him and I feel so sorry for him I give in, but I don't feel anything. Now he's talking marriage again. How can I untangle myself from him? He says rather than break up with me, I should continue to date him and we will be "just friends." Please help me!

SOFT-HEARTED

Dear Soft-hearted: Don't kid yourself. He might be a "friend" to you, but you are more than a "friend" to him. He hopes to wear you down and get you to marry him after all. (This has been known to happen.) Break—and break clean. He'll live.

How is the world treating you? Unload your problems on Abby, care of this paper.

Dietzel Will Head Coach's Clinic

PAUL DIETZEL, new head football coach at West Point, was named last night as the chief instructor of the Eastern Pennsylvania Coaches Clinic.

Dietzel will instruct for four days at the event, which will be held June 18, 19, 20 and 21 at East Stroudsburg State College.

Clinic director Marty Baldwin, who leaves for a Florida vacation today, announced the signing of Dietzel last night.

Dietzel, who served as an assistant coach at West Point under Earl Blaik, gained fame as head coach at Louisiana State University.

Developed Stars
At LSU, Dietzel developed such players as Billy Cannon of the Houston Oilers and Jim Taylor of the Green Bay Packers.

LSU completed a 9-1 season under Dietzel last year and defeated Colorado in the Orange Bowl.

Although no topic has been named for Dietzel to discuss at the clinic, he will probably talk on the wing-T and three-platoon football. While at LSU he installed three teams, the White or two-way team, the Green team, an offensive unit and the famed Chinese Bandits, his defensive squad.

Baldwin also listed the other football coaches that will make up the staff of the 19th annual event.

They are Ted Daily, Syracuse line coach; Buff Donelli, head coach of Columbia's Ivy League champs; Alex Bell of Villanova, whose teams won the Sun Bowl this year and two high school coaches, Boyd Sponagle of McCaskey High in Lancaster and John Barbone of Millville, N. J. The basketball staff will be announced later.

WALK TO WORKOUT—Gary Gubner, record-breaking New York University shot putter, walks from university gym, loaded down with the trappings of his sport as he heads for a practice session. The 255-pound sophomore got off a record 83-foot, 10 1/4-inch heave in the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden to break record held by Parry O'Brien.

Seton Hall Star Closes Scoring Gap

NEW YORK (AP)—Nick Werkmann of Seton Hall went on a spree this past week and moved to within striking distance of Billy McGill of Utah in the major college basketball scoring race.

Werkmann collected 40 points twice and 29 in his third game and boosted his scoring average to 33.7. NCAA Service Bureau figures showed Thursday, based on games through last Tuesday.

McGill slumped to a 36.1 points per game average, netting 25 and 30 points in two games last week. Holy Cross' Jack Foley remained third at 31.6.

The other individual department leaders of a week ago maintained their supremacy. Jerry Lucas of Ohio State is tops in field goal shooting with a .536 percentage while Arkansas' Tommy Boyer leads in free throw accuracy with a .957 mark.

In the team categories, Chicago Loyola is the highest scoring club with a 90.7 average.

Chisox Sign

Hurler Wynn

CHICAGO (AP)—Early Wynn, 42, the patriarch of pitching in the major leagues, signed his 1962 contract with the Chicago White Sox Thursday, hopeful he can hurl the 6 victories he needs to reach the coveted 300 mark.

Wynn's signing, which will mark his 21st major league season, came after doctor's approval of his erstwhile ailing pitching right elbow.

Wynn was benched last July 22 after achieving an 8-4 record for a career mark of 292-238. He hasn't thrown a ball since.

Wynn visited the Sox physician, Dr. Joseph T. Coyle, who told him Thursday his right elbow is in very good shape. Immediately, Wynn huddled with Sox General Manager Ed Short and signed his 1962 pact.

The ailment was diagnosed as muscle trouble aggravated by a gout condition.

Uelses Will Miss Weekend Track Meets Due To Illness

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — With John Uelses, the record breaking pole vaulter, sidelined with influenza, the emphasis of the 18th annual Philadelphia Inquirer track and field meet Friday night shifts back to the track.

Uelses, the Marine corporal who last Saturday set an unofficial world record of 16 feet, 3 1/4 inch, is under treatment at the Quantic (Va) Marine Base Hospital. He'll also miss the Los Angeles Times meet Saturday.

Frank Budd, Villanova's 100-yard dash world record holder; Hayes Jones, the almost unbeatable hurdler; Jack Yerman, Olympic quarter miler favored in the 600-yard event, and a couple of class relay competitions are expected to give the crowd its money's worth.

Ingemar Will Quit Unless He Triumphs

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP) —

Ingemar Johansson said Thursday he probably will hang up his gloves if he loses Friday night's comeback bout to Joe Byrnes. However, Johansson is a 4-1 favorite.

"I want to get back the world title," said the 29-year-old Swede, who won the heavyweight boxing crown from Floyd Patterson in 1959, lost it in 1960 and was knocked out again by Patterson in his last start, March 13, 1961.

"If I do well against Byrnes I will keep pushing toward winning back the crown. If I lose, then I'll probably hang up my gloves for good."

A sellout crowd of 6,000 will watch the fight at Göteborg's Maeshallen Stadium.

Like Johansson, Byrnes also is making a comeback. He suffered a broken right leg in August 1960 and was out of action for over a year. He has won two minor bouts since his return. Byrnes, 30, has a 38-15-1 record. He was British Empire king in 1957.

Johansson said he is down to fighting weight of 198 pounds. His record is 22-2 with 14 knockouts.

Chanaca Scores Fall For S. Union

EAST Stroudsburg High, showing unexpected strength in the lower weights, scored a 39-12 wrestling victory over Stroud Union last night on the loser's mats.

It was the first interschool match for the Cavaliers and they came through with victories in nine of the 12 matches, six of the wins by pins.

Two of Stroud Union's victories were on decisions, with John Chanaca getting the only Mountaineer pin.

Chanaca collected the only six point victory of the match. The 98 pounder pinned the Cavaliers' Steve Fisher in 1:38. Under Pennsylvania high school wrestling rules a pin in the first period counts as six points. All other falls are worth five points.

The match had shaped up as a battle between Stroud Union's good little men and the Cavaliers' big men. Stroud Union did make its best showing in the lower weights but the Cavaliers still managed to win four matches in the weights below 148 pounds.

Lower Weight Pins

The Cavaliers had two of their pins in the lower weights, with Dennis Petecovic pinning Bob Quigley in 4:38 of their 103 pound match with a chicken wing and half nelson and Jack Hine line scoring a fall over Stroud Union's Pete DeSanto. Hine line also used a chicken wing and half nelson. He scored his fall at 3:55.

After the Cavaliers and Mountaineers traded pins in the first two bouts, Dutch Grimm put Stroud Union ahead with a 6-0 win over Don Sandt. All of the scoring was done in the final period.

Hine line's fall put the Cavaliers back on top but Stroud Union took the lead for the final time when the Mounties' Bill Yost decided Larry Petecovic, 4-0.

That was the last bout the Mounties won, as East Stroudsburg swept the final seven, four by falls.

Berry Upset

The biggest upset of the night came in the 141 pound scrap, when the Cavaliers' Charlie Smith decided Dave Berry 7-3. Berry had won three out of four matches this year.

The Smith-Berry bout was the best of the evening and was close until the late part of the final period.

The other Cavalier winners were Mike Poorsttra, who scored a 7-0 decision over Art George at 136 pounds; Earl Metzger, who pinned Don Heller at 148; Bob Corby, who pinned Bob Hickey at 157; Gwynne Jones, who scored a fall over Terry Bond in the 168 pound match; Harry Lee, a 5-0 winner over Jon Raymond and Bud Stann, who pinned Bob Berry at 3:57 of their unlimited match.

Results

98—John Chanaca (SU) pinned Steve Fisher, 1:38 body press, half nelson.
103—Dennis Petecovic (ES) pinned Bob Quigley, 4:38, chicken wing, half nelson.
119—Dutch Grimm (SU) dec. Don Sandt, 3:55, chicken wing, half nelson.
136—Mike Poorsttra (SU) dec. Art George, 7-0.
141—Charlie Smith (ES) dec. Dave Berry, 7-3.
148—Earl Metzger (SU) pinned Don Heller, 4:16, body press, half nelson.
157—Bob Corby (SU) pinned Bob Hickey, 2:55, body press, half nelson.
168—Gwynne Jones (SU) pinned Terry Bond, 3:08, chicken wing, half nelson.
187—Harry Lee (ES) dec. Jon Raymond, 5-0.
220—Bud Stann pinned Bob Berry, 3:57, body press, half nelson.

Mounts Stay In 1st Spot In PSB Loop

STROUD UNION still holds first place, as the Pocono Mountain Basketball League moves into its final stages.

The Mountaineers have a 3-1 record and a 200 Saylor Rating. Saylor Ratings are based on won and lost records and the caliber of opposition.

Pocono Mountain, which ended its league season last Friday with a victory over Pleasant Valley, remains in second place. The Cards are 5-2 and have a 193 rating. Third place belongs to East Stroudsburg.

There are only three league games left and East Stroudsburg is involved in all of them. The Cavaliers face Bangor tonight, Pen Argyl next Tuesday and end their season Feb. 17 against Stroud Union.

Cannot Win
The Cavaliers cannot win the league. They lost that chance when Pocono whipped Pleasant Valley, which finished with an 0-7 league record.

However, East Stroudsburg will decide the league champion. If the Cavaliers beat Stroud Union, then Pocono wins but if East Stroudsburg loses, then the Mountaineers win the league and the Daily Record Trophy that goes to the champion.

The Cavaliers could finish in second place by winning the remainder of their games.

Pleasant Valley cannot better its fifth place standing but Bangor could move into third if it whips East Stroudsburg and the Cavaliers lose to Pen Argyl and Stroud Union.

Pen Argyl has the best mark, (4-0) and the top rating, 275 but the Green Knights do not play enough teams to qualify for the league title.

Standings

	W.	L.	R.
Stroud Union	3	1	200
Pocono Mountain	5	2	193
East Stroudsburg	4	3	165
Bangor	2	4	117
Pleasant Valley	0	7	106
Pen Argyl	4	0	275

Moore Must Sign Today Or Lose Rest Of Boxing Title

By MURRAY ROSE

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Time runs out on ancient Archie Moore Friday.

Unless the 45-year-old gladiator shows proof that he has signed for a title defense against either NBA champion Harold Johnson or Doug Jones, the New York State Athletic Commission is expected to chop off another piece of Moore's light heavyweight crown.

Moore is recognized as king of the 175-pound class by New York, Massachusetts and Europe. The National Boxing Association, after repeated warnings to Moore to defend, finally took away recognition. It named Johnson, of Philadelphia, as its champion.

Jones, of New York, is the No. 2 contender.

If New York dethrones Moore, Massachusetts and the British and European boxing bodies undoubtedly will follow.

Archie's last defense was in New York last June 10 when he outpointed Giulio Rinaldo of Italy.

If Moore is dethroned, the commission probably will suggest a fight between Johnson and Jones for the title.

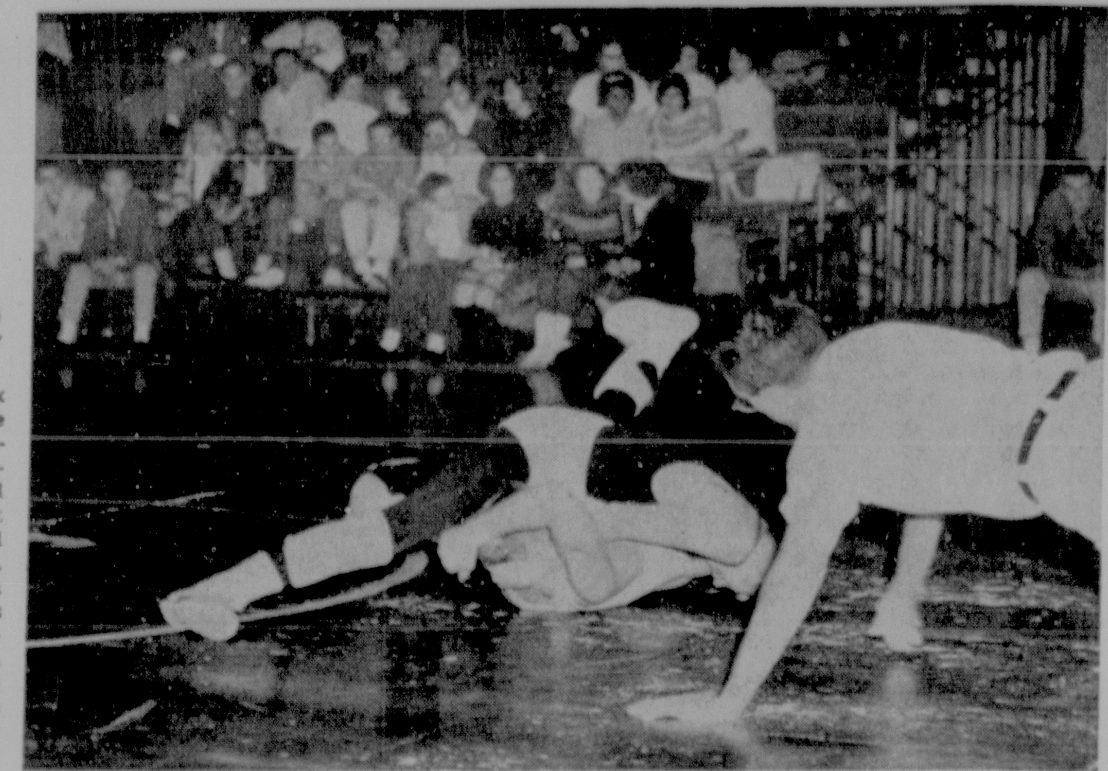

Fabel wants to secure enough teams so that "softball can be returned to the high level it once enjoyed locally."

Teams wishing to enter the league can make application at the next meeting, Feb. 21 at Lackawanna Hotel.

Baylor Won't Get Furlough

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Elgin Baylor has been turned down by his superior officer at Ft. Lewis, Wash., and won't be here Monday night when the Los Angeles Lakers play the St. Louis Hawks.

The Laker management said Baylor's request for a half-day leave had been denied.

Mounties, Cards Home

So. Wayne Is Only Squad Out Of Court Action Today

EVERY area high school basketball team except Southern Wayne will be in action tonight.

Tonight's card has Slaton at Stroud Union in a Lehigh Valley League game, East Stroudsburg at Bangor and Pen Argyl at Wilson for Lehigh-Northampton League games; Pine X at Pocono Mountain, Pleasant Valley at Nesquehoning in Black Diamond League play and North Pocono at Delaware Valley in a Wayne County League battle.

Not too much will be at stake tonight except in the Delaware Valley and Pocono Mountain games.

Delaware is still in the race for the second half title of the Wayne County League, after ending the first half in third place.

Pocono is not in a formal league but it's being considered for the District II Class B PIAA play-offs. If the Cards can whip Pius tonight and Jim Thorpe Tuesday, they are almost assured of a district berth.

Only 4 Losers
Pocono has won 13 of its 17 games losing only to Scranton Prep, Southern Wayne, East Stroudsburg and Stroud Union.

The Cards have avenged the Southern Wayne and Cavalier losses.

Stroud Union went eight league games without a victory, before upsetting Whitehall, 54-50, Tuesday.

No one expects the Mountaineers to be a contender for the second half championship but the schedule favors coach Bob Wert's club.

Only one of the Mounties' remaining league games is away from home. Of course if Stroud Union does make a title run, it will have to get help from other teams, since Catawauqua has not been beaten in league play and has already defeated Stroud Union twice.

East Stroudsburg holds only one Lehigh-Northampton league win and that was over Bangor. The Slaters have not been able to post a league decision.

Must Win
The Cavaliers can finish in second place in the Pocono-Slate Belt League by winning their remaining three games but if they lose to the Slaters, the Cavs could drop to fourth place before the season is over.

Pleasant Valley holds one victory in the Black Diamond League and narrowly missed a second Tuesday night. Tonight the Bears face the league's leading scorer, Tony Ligenza, who has been hitting about 24 points a game.

Pen Argyl is still in its up and down pattern. The Green Knights whipped Bangor in their last game.

Wilson already holds one decision over the Green Knights this season.

There are two girls' games booked today, Slaton at Stroud Union and Bangor at Pen Argyl.

Johnson Named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Rankin Johnson of Williamsport, Pa., president of the Eastern League, Thursday was named minor league representative on baseball's Playing Rules Committee.

He replaces Hal Totten of Birmingham, Ala., president of the defunct Southern Association.

Jacks Moves Into 2nd Spot YMCA Independent League

JACK'S Market rallied in the final period last night to nip Patterson-Kelley 68-64 and take over second place in the YMCA Independent Basketball League.

In the second game, league-leading Rudy's-E. S. Hardware downed Jaycees-George's Soda, 57-52.

Lem Isom had 20 points for Jack's and John Whiteside added 13.

Rudy's now 4-1, got 17 points out of Rick Carroll and 15 from Dave Sine.

John Martin led the losers with 21 and Ron Phillips added 13.

The Daily Investor

Foolish Investments

By William A. Doyle

Q. You are my last resort. I have been buying and selling stock without my husband's knowledge, and have dug a deep hole in our savings account. I wanted to make a fast profit, to meet the expenses of sending my daughter through college. Her latest tuition bill is overdue and I don't know what to do. Between losses on stocks I bought and later sold and declines in stock I now own, I am out $1,200. I will list the stocks I own and the prices I paid. Please, what should I do?

A. You supplied that list but I didn't print it here—because it is about as bad a collection of junk as I ever saw. The one exception is the Arkansas Louisiana Gas common stock you own. And you didn't even buy that one stock, directly. Your letter shows that you bought 100 shares of Southwest Natural Gas common stock and then received 20 shares of Arkansas Louisiana Gas, when Southwest Natural Gas was merged into Arkansas Louisiana Gas.

Arkansas Louisiana Gas is considered to be a good company, with a good outlook for the future. Everything else you own falls in the low-priced "cat and dog" class. If you keep them, they will probably bring you nothing but continued grief. If you're smart, you'll sell them.

I don't like to be rough on you. But you have made some terrible mistakes in the stock market. An even bigger mistake was gambling with your daughter's college money. That's unforgivable.

But your biggest mistake was buying even one share of stock, without your husband's knowledge. Finance should be a family affair—with no secrets by either husband or wife.

Q. I have been approached to buy debentures of a certain loan company. These debentures pay annual interest of seven percent. If high interest rates such as this are available, why should anybody leave his money in a savings account, which pays only about four percent?

A. These are two entirely different things. A savings account is just that—a method of savings. Assuming that the account is insured by an agency of the Federal government, money put into such an account is safe.

But don't let anybody tell you that a debenture offered to yield seven percent is absolutely safe. Any outfit that sells debentures with an interest rate of seven percent must have a relatively low credit standing.
